Missionary To Address WMU Annual Meeting

A missionary and author interested in work with the deaf and with those who speak foreign languages will be the main speaker at the Annual meeting of the Associational Women's Missionary Union, meeting Thursday, February 17 at Falling River Baptist Church, Brookneal.

Mrs. W. I. Hudson of Evergreen, WMU Superintendent, has announced that the meeting will begin at 10 a.m. and will include luncheon and an afternoon session. Changes will be made in Associational officers. The meeting is open to WMU leaders, interested church members and others.

The speaker will be George B. Joslin, Director of Language Missions, Baptist General Association of Virginia, Richmond.

Mr. Joslin became interested in work for the deaf in the late 1950's and served as interpreter for the deaf at Baptist Temple, San Jose, California, 1958-61. He is a graduate of Golden State Baptist Seminary, California and has completed graduate work at Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C. and the University of Tennessee at Knoxville.

He has served pastorates in Missouri and California, serving last with the Home Mission Board and Southern Baptist General Convention of California as missionaries to the deaf. In 1967 Mr. Joslin began a new relationship with the Baptist General Convention of Texas as Language Missions Associate with responsibilities for ministries to the deaf and for Latin American youth and kindergarten work.

In May, 1971, Mr. Joslin assumed his present position as director of language missions with the Baptist General Association of Virginia. He is the author of "Manualville Versus the Deaf" published in 1967 by the Home Mission Board. He has served on several professional organizations related to the deaf.

Pastor Leaves For Mexico

Pastor Lucas will be in Mexico for the next two weeks on a preaching tour of several Missionary Stations supported by our Church. The Bible Baptist Church contributes to the support of five Missionaries in Mexico. His tour will take him into the Yoratan and over most of Mexico. Rev. Lucas plans to take approximately 350 slides of the work and progress of our Missionaries. Upon returning from the field he will be showing these slides during the Sunday evening services for several weeks and explain to the people the various aspects of the Mission work there.

The anticipated Missionary giving of the Bible Baptist Church for this year is between 18 and 20 thousand dollars.

The guest speakers in the absence of Rev. Lucas will be Rev. Joe Falls of Floyd, Va., who will be speaking this coming Sunday. For the services Feb. Rev. Jesse Powell will guest speaker. Rev. Fl Pastor of Brentwood Church in Roanoke, Va.

Pastor Lucas is expected return Friday, Feb.

The county-wide rat control program reached its high point last week with poison concentrate going on sale.

There's one thing that bothers me. Are we depending on poison bait to do the entire job? Or are we really cleaned-up? Are we using the best sanitation methods?

There's a town ordinance that says vacant lots will be kept clean. Rats are controlled by the entire community does not worry about the problem. You and I are the community, and if we are not too early to start cleaning today.

Over the week end James Myers was toting me about his tomato crop last year. Four plants supplied the family's need for fresh tomatoes and canning, but in addition he sold $200 worth of fresh tomatoes.

It doesn't take a large number of plants, but they do need to be cared for properly.

In last week's paper we had a picture and story about John Myers's tobacco, and I goofed! I said the county average was 18 pounds. That's what happens when you don't check the records.

The most recent three year average, 1968-70, is 1333 pounds.

Over the years it's 1968 - 1236, 1969 - 1483 -- 1970 - 1287.

Through last Thursday, 5.8 million pounds of Dark Tobacco had been sold for an average of $54.--- This compares with 6.3, mil, pounds at $51.76 in 1970.

Did we have a pig sale in Farmville last Thursday? 1,265 pound pigs sold for 50 per CWT. Pigs weighing 200 pounds and grading 1's and 2's brought $31 per head.

Sales always go with the lighter market and by late in the week a number of Virginia farms reported $28 hogs.

A vaccine for scours in calves has been developed by the University of Nebraska. The preliminary reports look real good. Over a two-year period 3,000 calves on 30 ranches were checked. When the vaccine was orally administered the scours 60 to 90 days before calving, 76 percent control was obtained.

If the product is marketed it will be in two forms, one for cows orally administered and the other for calves given 24 hours after birth.

Crop acreage intentions are down for most crops in 1972. Looking at a recent Virginia report of 72 versus '71 plantings shows corn -- 94%, oats, --94%, barley -- 97%, sorghum -- 88% and soybeans -- 105%.

Rat-O-Gram

Once we have made our community as unliveable for rats as possible it then becomes necessary to eliminate whatever rats are left. This is most effectively done by poisoning. Rat poison and rat bait can be purchased locally in our community for this purpose. The poison being made available to the people of Appomattox County at cost is an anticoagulant. The reason this poison was chosen is because it is one of the safer rat poisons known. Although the poison, called pival, is toxic to all animals, it requires several doses a day for several days to kill. This is why it is so safe. Should a dog or cat or even a person accidentally ingest some of this poison bait, the one does will not kill.

In order to use pival effectively against rats, the poison must be placed in as attractive bait as possible. Components of an especially formulated bait available in feed stores or the recipe available through the rat control program can also be used to prepare a homemade bait.

The bait should be exposed wherever rodents are a problem. If the bait is exposed outside, it should be exposed in a bait station protected from the weather so that the bait does not become wet or stale. It is important that as the rats consume this poison bait, it be replaced. It is important to remember that this anticoagulant poison is a cumulative poison and must be consumed several times a day by any animal for several days in order for it to be effective. Thus, if the bait is exposed one day and cleaned up by the rats in one day and is not replaced the next day, then it will not kill.

If each citizen in Appomattox County makes effective use of the bait material and the poison made available to them, then the rodent population in the county can be greatly reduced and perhaps even eliminated. In addition, merchants in our community are making commercial baits available for those who do not want to take the effort to prepare their own bait. In all cases, however, these anticoagulant baits should be kept as fresh as possible, and renewed whenever depleted. Although these poison baits are extremely safe, care should be taken so that the bait is not exposed to non-target animals or to children. Won't you do your part to help eliminate the rat problem in our county.

Bait concentrate is available from Appomattox Farmers Supply, Coleman and Sons, Inc., Tolley's Liquid Fertilizer.

National Parks Centennial 1872-1972

The Beginning Of An Idea

by Ken Apschnikat

The first of a series of articles on the National Parks Centennial and the National Park System.

Have you ever seen OLD FAITHFUL? If you have, like millions of other Americans, you have seen the symbol for the National Parks Centennial and the geyser that made Yellowstone National Park famous. That's right, your national parks are 100 years old this year. The nation and the world are having a celebration and you are invited to attend. How can you participate? By visiting Your National Park Areas. If you would like to know more about your National Parks and the Centennial Celebration please read on and follow this series of articles this year.

Over 100 years ago this year, an expedition into the West to explore this great country of ours revealed to a party of men a magnificent area of Northwest Wyoming known as Yellowstone. As they camped along the junction of the Firehole and Gibbon Rivers they talked around their campfire about the future of the area. At first some of the men talked of staking claims to the area, cutting trees for the lumber industry and establishing a private resort. Judge Cornelius Hedges of Montana had an idea, he said the area should not be in private hands, but should be owned by the Government for the enjoyment of the people. His idea met with immediate approval from members of the expedition. Back East these members began writing, speaking, and showing pictures and paintings of this beautiful area of our country. By their efforts a Congressional Bill was passed in February, 1872 to establish this area called Yellowstone as public land. On March 1, 1872 President Ulysses S. Grant, who seven years earlier signed another important document at Appomattox Court House, signed into law the act creating Yellowstone Nat. Park. The act stated "--and set apart as a public park or pleasuring ground for the benefit and enjoyment of the people".

Since the establishment of Yellowstone, the world's first national park, the national park idea has spread to over 90 countries throughout the world. A Second World Conference on National Parks will be held in Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks this year to pay tribute to the National Parks and hearing about soon.

You will find the symbol for the Centennial with each article. It represents the geyser OLD FAITHFUL which you see on the Centennial Medallion above the article. These medallions will be on sale through the mail and in the national parks areas throughout the country.

So until the next article on the Centennial and the National Park System, get out to your park here in Appomattox and join with us in celebrating the National Park idea and Centennial.
